

Promoting Positive Risk Management

All Wales Induction Framework Workbook 1 – Section 1.5

BACKGROUND:

The introduction of person-centred support with the emphasis on people having more choice about how their needs are met makes it all the more essential that we work with individuals and their families to ensure risks are identified, quantified, discussed and managed.

TARGET GROUP:

All staff who support people and enable them to take risks that are reasonable, but balance this with our duty to ensure that vulnerable people are protected from exploitation or abuse.

COURSE AIMS:

To equip candidates with the knowledge and skills to effectively and confidently promote positive risk management.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

1. Appreciate the value of promoting positive risk management
2. Recognise requirements of risk management strategy supported by policy & procedures
3. Recognise the value of Dynamic risk assessment

ORGANISATIONAL BENEFITS:

Promoting positive risk management and safe working practices in line with Health & Safety Act 1974 and Risk Assessment 1999. The law does not expect you to eliminate all risk, but as an organisation you are required to protect people as 'reasonable practice'. This 1-day training session supports and compliments the new All Wales Induction Framework. We invite delegates to bring along workbook 1, where section 1.5 will be covered during the session.
